Our History

In 1933, Moe Clayman opened the first Clayman Pharmacy on Bernard Avenue in Montreal, Quebec. His goal was to provide quality pharmaceutical services and advice to each and every patient.

Patients appreciated the care and respect that Moe provided. Soon Clayman Pharmacy became a trusted source of health advice and pharmaceutical care within the Montreal community.

In 1960 Moe moved the pharmacy to a new location on Van Horne Avenue, at the corner of Victoria Avenue, to better service his city-wide clientele.

A family man, Moe encouraged his two sons, Michael and Leonard, to become involved in the business from a young age.

At first just stocking the shelves and delivering orders, by the 1960's Michael and Leonard were both licensed pharmacists, working side by side with their father.

Today, the Clayman family tradition continues. In March 2003, the next generation of Claymans expanded the family business, opening up a new store on Kingsbury Avenue in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

After seventy years of service, Jeffrey, Valerie, and Mark provide patients with reliable and quality service, just like Moe did.
